COUNTY RECEIVES CHECK FROM VA. DIVISION OF FORESTRY

more than 15 employees are required to adopt a grievance procedure with binding arbitration.

Britton also told the supervisors county residents seem to be opposing any reference to zoning in the comprehensive plan being developed by the county planning commission.

The supervisors apparently are going to leave it to the planning commission to decide the issue. Two of the three board members - James Cobb and Dr. S. R. Lawson - said they would abide by the recommendation of the commission.

Britton pointed out that the plan is simply a guide for future consideration and would not necessarily mandate nor prohibit the supervisors from adopting a zoning ordinance later.

The supervisors delayed until October final consideration of an ordinance granting tax relief to low income elderly persons.

The ordinance is patterned after Campbell County's plan and will be advertised in September before a public hearing in October.

WASHINGTON - Aug. 9 - Last week the House devoted very nearly its entire schedule to foreign assistance without coming to any resolution. Members may well feel, before debate is completed, that they have been engaged in an endurance contest, rather than a legislative debate. As of the preparation time of this message, more than 40 hours had been expended last week alone on either authorizations for International Security or Appropriations for the entire Foreign Assistance function, and this is in addition to other hours devoted to economic aid and international financial institutions earlier in the year.

Assuming the Appropriations bill is ever finished (and this is not as frivolous a statement as it might seem; at the beginning of debate one Member had already drawn up more than seventy amendments, and as each day of debate ended, the number of potential amendments grew), an amount somewhere in the neighborhood of $7 billion will be provided for economic assistance, military assistance (outright grants), foreign military credit sales, the Peace Corps, refugee programs, and international financial institutions. The amount is probably going to be less than the budget request, but it will still be too much, and in many cases for the wrong purposes.

There is reason for some optimism, however. For in both the authorizating and appropriating bills this Congress began to display some recognition that we are dealing with a real world out there, and not some Utopia, inhabited by others and viewed by us through rose-colored glasses.

Sanctions against Rhodesia and Turkey were removed, in both instances contingent on continuation of efforts by both nations to resolve the problems which had brought them criticism in an earlier period.

A ban on the importation of Rhodesian chrome ore was imposed in 1966 in an attempt by the United Nations to force Rhodesia to accept "majority" rule. Since that time, Rhodesia's government has worked out a plan for free elections which would permit participation in government by all citizens, yet the ban remained because terrorist elements within and radial governments without saw an opportunity to impose their own form of government - by - terror, and without majority support.

The embargo on the sale of arms to Turkey was another matter. Imposed almost four years ago following the invasion by Turkey of the island of Cyprus, it has been variously seen as a punishment for use of American-supplied equipment in that invasion, and as a means of forcing the Turks to the bargaining table to resolve the problem.

No matter which reason you choose, the embargo has not worked, and each day it has become more obvious that its continuation was doing us, as a nation, increasing harm.

Turkey is vital to NATA, and our first line of defense against Communist aggression in Europe and the Middle East. With one exception every nation in the Alliance has publicly urged that the embargo be lifted. When I was in Western Europe in July, this was brought up in every country visited.

Thus it was gratifying that the House voted on two separate occasions to lift this embargo and resume provision of arms to this indispensable partner.

While I have voted for some perfecting amendments to foreign aid bills, I have consistently voted against them on passage. It is obvious that, as a body, Congress has no real vision of what it is doing in this area, or even what it wants to do. Foreign assistance is used as a reward, a punishment, for the pushing of special interests. It is meant for the poor, but most often does not trickle down to this level. It is used to prop up governments which cannot prosper because their economics are built on the sands of socialism. Money - your money - is regularly misguided and misspent. And you work too hard for that money to have it squandered in such a manner.

Powhatan Woman Praises Appomattox Citizens and Rescue Squad

Little did May Cretsinger of Route 4, Box 6311, Powhatan, Virginia know when she entered Appomattox County on Wednesday, August 2nd, that at approximately 1:00 P.M. her trip would come to a sudden halt and as a result she would end up in the hospital.

As she was driving up highway 460, just west of Appomattox, enroute to Altavista, where she was born and reared, a car pulled out in front of her.

In order to avoid hitting the other car, Mrs. Cretsinger swerved to the side and as she did so her car went up an embankment and overturned.

Although Mrs. Cretsinger's car made no contact with the other vehicle, the driver and his wife turned around, came back and assisted her, as she put it, "Beyond the call of duty." The lady from the other car even accompanied Mrs. Cretsinger to the hospital, while her husband did everything he could to help.

As Mrs. Cretsinger talked with the Times-Virginian by phone this week she said, "They were the most compassionate, caring people I have ever seen; then there was a gentleman, Dave Martin, (I did not get his address) who went out of his way to locate my husband who is a driver for a large trucking concern."

As Mrs. Cretsinger continued to talk about the kindnesses extended her as the result of her accident she had the highest praise for the Appomattox County Rescue Squad; "not only were they well-trained and efficient, but they seemed to have a personal interest in doing all they could to help me. I will never forget their kindness."

Although she had grown up in a small community, Mrs. Cretsinger said she had forgotten just how warm and caring people could be. Although she will recover from the accident and most likely forget the incident she said she would never forget the people of Appomattox and how each and every individual and the Rescue Squad met her needs with sincere warmth and compassion.

Hearing Loss Is Not A Sign Of Old Age

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

True, all hearing problems are not alike . . . and some cannot be helped, but many can. So, send for this free model now, and wear it in the privacy of your own home. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 2844, Beltone Electronics Corp., 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, 60646.
